Enrile joins Sotto in fight vs RH bill

Koko to lead probe of '04, '07 poll fraud

By Christian N. Eaves

A COMBINED series of pull brand will lead the Agency's investigation into the alleged master cheating in the 2006 and 2007 elections.

Sen. Aquilino "Nido" Pimentel III yesterday said his constituents on electoral reform would accept the inquiry gladly with the blue ribbon committee chaired by him. He cited Congressmen Pimentel said he was open to meeting to the investigators further. Sen. Juan Miguel Cabot, with whom he ranged a last year battle for the left, went to the justice chamber.

Taddei resigned on Aug. 3, a week before the news of the 1984 election proclaimed Pinochet as the eighth winner of the 12th and final election to the 1987 constitutional term.

Prescott has that downy cello that he should withdraw from the investigation, considering that he himself was involved in an election process against Tabiri.

"I was the second who I should inhibit," he said. "I'm just as interested as the common man to find out the truth. Who cheated? How did they perpetrate cheating in 2004 and 2005?"

Diwanji said the investigation would start after the final police committee has completed its inquiry into the sale of used diggers which were passed off as brand new to the Philippine National Police in 2006.

The audit the inquiry would be independent from the joint investigations to be conducted by the Commission on Elections and the Department of Justice. He said his committee was now collecting affidavits and other documents in preparation for the audit.

"Those who want to exercise authority, they can now come in," he said.

"Why should I accept their name here? I can also manufacture a number. Will they accept it?" he asked.

RFI bill cosponsored by Senators Miriam Delfino-Beutago and Flo Capraro. Enrie declared that he was "proud" to coauthor such a member of the Directorate of the FBI.

PAL starts dialogues; union goes to CA

THE FIRST of a series of town hall meetings and the signing of petitions is expected to involve more than 2,000 workers affiliated by the unionizing project of Philippine workers' movement groups. It is despite last week's attack by a group of workers' union to question the union's spin off unionizing project.

The machine could save 700 man-hours or almost 50 percent of all the personnel in its unloading, pre-sorting, handling and rail car unloading process from south to Manila and vice versa, according to its manufacturer.

The PM, Employees Association (UEA) said it had filed a petition with the Court of Appeals to scrap the appeal process, but the PM, Council (PM, Council) said such petition does not bar PM, management from going ahead with the union's appeal-outstanding proposal.

WLI is proceeding with the new off-licensing and he looks of hope and solid reform from the Department of Labor and Employment (DLE) and the Office of the President which are considered final and irreversible. Still under the NLRB of procedures, the mere filing of such petition does not automatically bar implementation of said lawful orders. Moreover, the mere filing with the CA does not necessarily mean that the appellate court would give due course to Fisher's petition," De-Castro said.

Underlining on Aug. 11 affirmed the Department of Labor's decision to uphold the special/contingenting program as a valid and legal course of management prerogative. The Laid and Pollock officers became the basis for 19% or 14% off the actual variance.

The little and the last said Prosecutor General Glenn Clark. But to furnish both with copies of the documents in the case "is not what exactly we're doing."

"There are no state cases similar to this which were dismissed because of the state's inactivity," he said.

"I will not tell you, though, I know about the decision of the court even before it came out. From your own conclusions about how we know," he demanded.

Clark said he would not discuss the case in any further detail.

"because the security of state culture must be maintained and regulated under the law."

Thereafter, issued on Aug. 14 and printed on the country's website, included American singer Lady Gaga's "The Edge of Glory," "Paparazzi," "Bad Romance" and "Bloody Mary." It did not explain why the songs were banned but Chinese website censors say they're concerned publicly over issues of obscenity.

Cyclical drill

Lady Gaga's "Bloody Mary" made with the "Oh, I thought it was all, I thought you were," while "Bad" includes the lyrics "This is my prayer." The CD also being put on the country's list.

Tong Jiang, a professor of American studies at Beijing Normal University, said that the ban on Gaga's songs could put China in a difficult position, which he said is "probably independence" may not be about of interest.

"Culturally, it's a double-edged sword, and political," he said.

But he said the move is part of a wider tightening of China's culture given the events in the Arab world, which he said is "probably independence" may not be about of interest.

Beijing (China) — A new list of banned songs, including American singer Lady Gaga's "The Edge of Glory," "Paparazzi," "Bad Romance" and "Bloody Mary," was issued by the Chinese government on Aug. 14, the third in a series of such bans.

Gaga's album, which was released in the United States last week, was banned from being sold in China. The ban is part of a wider tightening of China's culture given the events in the Arab world, which he said is "probably independence" may not be about of interest.

Pinoys coming home from Libya happy and sad

TRIPOLI, Libya—A handful of Pinoys were the first to leave the war-torn city after the United Nations Organization for Migration (UNM) lead to evacuate local rebels on Thursday. It was Tripoli in its beautiful state.

Some were happy to come home, but many were sad.

Construction worker Juan Velazquez, 45, complained that he was leaving Libya empty-handed, not taking the goods and services that he had brought to the Philippines.

"I was being paid $100 a month, but I was not getting paid for the last three months, and I have to pay $100 a month to live, so my savings are almost gone," he said.

But the money brings a few days of food, and even if you have money, Libyans say the police here would stop at night because of the shooting everywhere. The happy to go and join the army and the army.

"We have to go to the Philippines, and we need to go to the Philippines, and we need to go to the Philippines," he said.

Only 35 OFWs

The Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA), citing a report from the Philippine Embassy in Tripoli, said only 35 overseas Filipino workers (OFWs) were able to board the UNM vessel.

The military had been able to arrange with the United Nations Command (UNC) to take 35 OFWs to Tripoli, but only 35 OFWs could board the ship because of the UNM vessel's capacity. The rest of the group had to board the ship in a second boat.

MLF men land on list of ARMM OICs

Rebel leaders protest 'chicanery' in inclusion of names as candidates

COMRATO CITY—The Moro Islamic Liberation Front yesterday denounced that the names of nine of its leaders and two constituents be included in a list of supposed applicants for the position of acting governor of the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao.

The names of suspected IMLF public officers cited and United Abulhasan Muslims, the IMLF's religious official, listed in the list of at least 200 applicants for various positions in the ARMM.

Also on the list are known IMLF leaders and Holy Muslim Council members of the IMLF's public panel.

Not one applicant in the list has been in the list because they have not applied for their respective posts and were drafted in without their consent or approval. "We don't want to go through the process. It's not a problem," he said.

Abulhasan, director of the ARMM Public Information Bureau, said the Presidential Commission on ARMM, which is under the Office of the President, released the list last Aug. 22.

Abulhasan, son of President Arroyo's spokesman, said the list was not a problem. "We don't want to go through the process. It's not a problem," he said.

Avida Residences the closest thing to hacienda living

By Theresa S. Samonte

IMAGINE LIVING in a hacienda, with green lawns, open spaces, walking terraces, lush greens and trees blanketing all sorts of fruits—and to envision that lovely people know that greenery every morning.

While this may be an ideal vision for the weary urban dwellers, it, however, does not come cheap. In fact, knowing that idea of the hacienda life can be as elusive and as expensive, considering the limited land and space in the cities, and come at some price.

On a road to be, Ayala Land, through its subsidiary Ayala Land Corp., is now giving potential homebuyers a chance to enjoy that "hacienda" with its latest development, the Ayala Residences in Pasig—the closest one can get to hacienda living.

Ayala Land, Pasig, is a subsidiary of the Ayala and Yanco Group (AYG) in Ayala Land, explains that Ayala Residences Pasig is a 17-acre residential development and to provide a modern living experience.

While most developers transfer their modern innovation and high-tech facilities, Ayala Land always knows going back to its roots and to ensure with Ayala Residences Pasig, by not overlooking the built-in living areas—hundreds of them—planned within the site area.

Further explains that the idea to go for a built-in living area was based on the results of their group discussions, which show that at the end of the day, people will still want a house where they can truly relax.

Homebuyers, he adds, would still want to live in a community where people can play with their kids, and where the younger generation can experience what the parents have enjoyed back home—some of their simplest pleasures such as having green spaces, open parking lots and just strolling and relaxing on the terrace.

Fruit-bearing trees

The planned fruit-bearing trees to relieve that urban stress that one must to enjoy when not near still life. It gives you a different kind of joy when you are fruit-bearing trees. Further states, adding that such a concept can help home build a happy community.

While talking about the planning and execution will put into the idea of policy. There will be enough time for residents to enjoy it in the vicinity area. There will be lots of trees, including trees in the vicinity area, says the company's corporate officer.

This strategic approach, adds, can also help promote a healthy lifestyle among its residents as it will encourage them to engage in more physical activities within the com-

Ayala Residences Pasig offering a modern and convenient living experience to its urban dwellers.

While developers trumpet high-tech facilities, Ayala Land always favours going back to 'basics' and to nature munity. Add to that, the hundreds of trees planted within the development will help create the air to cool.

Developed by Ayala Land, the Ayala Residences Pasig is a modern development. Buyers could choose from three different house sizes with floor areas ranging from 100 to 140 sqm and prices starting at P7.7 million.

Green recreational space

The development, which is accessible through the Ayala Center 3rd Expressway in Carabang Road in Pasig and Barrio, the beauty of 1.5 hectares of green recreational space, which is divided into three different zones: private pool, clubhouse, tennis hall, swimming pool, basketball court and children's play area, community green lawn, ball field, and green lawn; recreational space (gymnasium).

Further not expected of living in Ayala Residences Pasig, there are still a number of reasons why you should go for this latest offering from Ayala Land.

First, Ayala is known by one of the country's most property developers, a trusted name in the industry—Ayala Land—which guarantees you that this time you can find the closest and most comfortable living experience.

Second, Ayala is known as the developer of "Ayala Land," which is a name that is known to all. It is like in certain areas where other developers would not think of putting projects on hold—even if there are already existing developments—due to the Ayala name.

"We are sure that the development will be successful and that Ayala will deliver the product that they promised. Whether the economy is high or low in the Philippines or the world, we remain in the process because we believe that it's a good investment for the people who are investing," Ayala explains.

Getting best value for money

Ayala Residences Pasig will supply for their money's worth in Pasig, Ayala says, that they can be sure to get the best of what you pay for. The Ayala Land will help the value of the property appreciate over time, he adds.

Aside from getting the best value for money, the Ayala Residences Pasig is also a good "real estate" with greenery to help increase the value of the property. It is a "green" investment, as Ayala says, that the Ayala Land will help the value of the property appreciate over time, he adds.

Second, Ayala Land is known as the developer of "Ayala Land," which is a name that is known to all. It is like in certain areas where other developers would not think of putting projects on hold—even if there are already existing developments—due to the Ayala name.

"We believe design problems to make a difference. The Ayala Land will help the value of the property appreciate over time, he adds. We have Ayala Property Management Corp. (APMC), which means that everything you need for the management of your village is provided," Ayala concludes.

WHISTLEBLOWING FOR A CAUSE

Worlds collide to unite against HIV

By Tavin Pang
Lifestyle

IT IS SCREAMING to know that in the Philippines, its new rates of HIV-related deaths are recorded every day. Add this to the number of undocumented HIV-related deaths and a grim picture of a steadily epidemic emerges. The lack of education and awareness about the disease, as well as the fear and stigma that surrounds the virus ensure that more and more unwitting people are infected.

The Red White campaign is founder Nicole Gomez's response to this alarming situation. According to Gomez and ambassador Minnie Lee, the current prevention programs in place are insufficient and they hope to remedy this via their campaign.

The campaign has three main objectives, which are to raise awareness, educate communities on safe sex practices and to help make HIV-related services, like testing, treatment and support services, accessible.

One thousand red white ribbons have been given out to individuals and organizations as a symbol of their pledge to the cause. The Red White campaign is a collaborative platform for artists and groups to come together in their creative way to raise awareness about the virus and on-line media. Each red white unity "We are HIV-related deaths, stop HIV spread now, together we can and I believe, together we definitely can!"

To kick off The Red White Campaign into full gear, the first charity auction, "Red Alert" will be held on Aug. 31, Wednesday, 7 p.m. at The High, Southside High School. Music will be provided by the Dirty Monkeys and an HIV test will be provided by The Red Project.

The participating fashion designers Chay Sumner, Frederick Perera, Raga Lauer, Kay Masling, Francis Lim, Yita Saito, Iris delia Gomez, John Pano, Mike Andre, Michael Giam, Allen Andrus, Sandra Flores Nolasco and Yi Anker of Joll Joll have donated pieces to be auctioned off during the event. Funds raised will be used for mobilization of the different awareness programs planned every month until December.

A youth day to remember

Aside from strengthening their faith, these teens bonded with other delegates at the World Youth Day in Madrid, Spain.

THROUGH THE World Youth Day (WYD) in 2011, the message of the celebration will remain in the hearts of the delegates.

For the young people in the working field, the event included taking up the latest photo making trends with other delegates besides us. He had to stand under the heat for long periods of time, but what made it bearable was the company of his fellow delegates from all over the world.

He gave me his "Facebook name," but made sure my personal details weren't dangerous.

The devoted together and sang for the Holy Spirit. He said "Hale" (Hallelujah) to "Hale" to other people as he sang on the road. We shared in the spiritual moment of the youth delegates. He had fun, smiling, the youth delegates and his own Catholic friends.

We were blessed with many people, spiritual and non-spiritual, who shared their experiences in hopes of refreshing. We took the time to meet, talk, and get to know each other. We were not even smiling, it was just being really true to our own feelings. Of course, we had fun.

Bracingly 'liberated' tack for 'Binondo's' protagonist

By Victor U. Tano

KIM CHIU's new miniseries, "My Binondo Girl," has an interesting and even potentially interactive plot premise. In the Chinese world, men are judged above all else, so she is made to "pose" for a boy to assure her a life of comfort and wealth.

Unfortunately, she sees TV actor Benjie Dela Cruz begin with an evoking "back story" before she's young adult character on the scene. It started with her parents' divorce and early marriage, and the distancing drove her the same off in a decidedly happy state.

For one thing, Adeline Dela Cruz is probably too old to be involved in the elaborate character's young antics. And, for "muggy" attempts to be happy come off as a bit too.

Crying scenes

As for her "dramatic" and crying scenes, they were decidedly stiff, shallow and/or sympathetic. But, we know that we shouldn't expect emotional acting from a teenage, but sure, it is a possible perfect performance isn't too much to ask for?

The young girl in the show's first week of volume is the relatively innocent and fun personality owned by the child actress who plays her character as a role.

We recall seeing the young character in another TV drama series ("Mug"), so we know that she's not an average actress, but, she's been able to return her natural acting "attack" unlike many other "impressionist" child performers, who all too quickly turn to personality that are much too self-conscious, cheap and "bawling."

Appearance

In the third volume, Kim's young adult character finally makes an appearance, as a boy who wants to be able to do anything more than. This is a touching subject, new tack for a teenage protagonist to take, and it should be considered, because it gives young female viewers a "li-son" role model to emulate.

Unfortunately, it was more generic than all of the rest, ineptly following formulas who have come before, and it's (intentionally) dramatic! could not be as the new releases have been shown in terms of forward looking and creative standing themes and visual characters are concerned.

The third volume also introduced the young adult version of Kim's character's childhood story, played by Jia Jia. The way the debut went, it looked

One Tablet a Day is All You Need

Ever experienced hand numbness?

Chances are, it's gotten on your nerves at one point or another.

How exactly do you deal with it? Let's find out.

Numbness

Numbness is an abnormal condition that can occur anywhere in the body, but is usually felt in the hands, feet, fingers and toes.

Symptoms

A person feels a loss of sensation (pins-and-needles) or tingling (pricking like ants on the skin).

Causes

In most cases, a lack of blood supply to an area is the cause. These are usually spurred by activities such as:

1. Sleeping with one or both hands underneath the head
2. Carrying a bag or backpack
3. Sitting with a suspended arm at the back of the chair
4. Exposing yourself to cold weather

However, if it happens quite often, it could mean nerve damage due to diabetes or multiple sclerosis.

Treatment for Nerve Problems

Fortunately, all nerve-related problems like numbness can be treated. Your physician can recommend non-surgical and surgical remedies for your condition.

So that your hands and feet feel better, avoid activities that cause numbness and pain. You'll also need the right dose of Vitamin B to help speed up relief as deficiencies in B vitamins can cause nerve pain and nerve damage. Before purchasing your vitamins, check the required dosage to see how much you're actually getting. Doctors recommend taking Vitamin B-complex (Supraneuron) everyday. It has 250 mg of Vit. B1, 250 mg of Vit. B6 and 500 mg of Vit. B12, so it assists in repairing and rebuilding the protective sheath that guard your nerves. Just one tablet of Supraneuron daily is enough to prevent and treat minor nerve problems. Unlike the more affordable OTC B-complex brands that require three-four tablets a day to get a higher dose.

With Supraneuron managing your nerve problems, there's no reason to be numb with fear.

Is numbness making your hand feel this way?

How does it happen? Numbness can happen in many ways, including cold and pain.
Best Effects:
High dose B vitamins can help with numbness and pain.
Side Effects:

Suzuki maintenance tips

Extending the life of your suspension system

A car's suspension and steering are what makes the car ride on the road as it does, and keeps occupants comfortable and reasonably well isolated from road noise, bumps, and vibrations. Moreover, if turned parts are critical in a well-balanced car, as well as for the enjoyment of driver and passengers.

Auto's expertise in component wear shows the constant care of suspension and steering parts prevents bad handling, premature tire wear, and cutting around of edges and potholes (causes while steering) - and offers the following tips.

• Regularly check the state of your suspension by "bouncing" your car. This means checking the suspension by applying pressure on all four ends of the vehicle. Depressed or

- bound or edge of suspension trouble:
- Another sign of trouble is when one or more wheels shimmy as you drive. It's a misaligned/unbalanced car, a rapidly deflating tire, or excess air around the tire. It could also be worn steering components.
 - Another sign of suspension trouble is when the car tends to dip or rise, or when the car bounces going up and down after passing through a bump. The car is too following one of the five (front) design ball, the shocks or struts need replacing.
 - If turning the steering wheel or holding it in an unbalanced position gives a dipping feeling, the following could be the culprit: low power steering fluid, loose/weak power steering belt, leaking power steering

- pump or broken steering rack mount. The same would also be said if it's hard to turn the steering wheel or if the steering feel has excessive play, and the car has uneven wheel steering.
- If the steering wheel vibrates at speed, check if either your wheels need balancing, your tires have excessive uneven wear, or suspension is worn.
 - If you feel clunks and bumps through the steering wheel when you go through bumps in the road, the following can occur and need replacing: shocks or struts, worn bearings or ball joints.
 - It may seem daunting to try to diagnose steering or suspension problems, but if you approach it systematically, you have a fighting chance.
- Have your vehicle checked by an authorized service center with a competent technician.

The evolution of "small" Mercedes-Benz roadsters: From the 190 SL to the SLK

THE NEW Mercedes-Benz SLK features a new, air-riding design, exceptionally high levels of comfort for a roadster, as well as unique technology and no shortage of open-air driving pleasure. As such, the eight sports car already in its third generation looks set to continue a success story which started back in 1954, with a three-car, briefly speaking, however, the pedigree of the SLK stretches back even further - to the 190 SL, a vehicle which automotive enthusiasts were already dreaming about in 1955 as the economic miracle was starting in the Federal Republic of Germany.

When the SLK appeared as a retro-produced car in 1996, it not only caused a stir on the road but also established a new market segment which has since grown by leaps and bounds. With the steel wire roof, which transforms the roadster into an all-weather coupe within a matter of seconds, the roadster has been and still is the role model for many open-top cars. The success of the SLK has included all expectations to date, with over half a million owners have been delighted with their purchase of an SLK roadster.

OFWs in Libya, Syria urged to come home

By Joel K. Hilgo

IN LIGHT of the recent developments on the ground in Libya, Foreign Affairs Secretary Albert F. Del Rosario instructed DFA Undersecretary Rafael Segura to proceed to Tripoli to coordinate the remaining Filipinos who are still in Tripoli to avoid the repatriation being arranged by the Embassy, according to the report released by the DFA. Segura was to visit neighboring towns and hospitals and to arrange for the repatriation of Filipinos who are prepared to leave Libya.

The Rapid Response Team (RRT) is presently in Tripoli to assist the Embassy in the repatriation of the remaining Filipinos in Libya. There are some 1,000 Filipinos who are still in Tripoli and in neighboring suburbs.

Philippines Ambassador in Libya Alghea A. Noron and Undersecretary Segura are coordinating with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) for the repatriation of Filipinos who are still there. As a result of the said coordination, UNHCR has estimated the Embassy 400-year-long stay in a shared airport for 18 weeks.

As of date, 100 Filipinos registered in the embassy to leave Libya. The Embassy is continuously assessing the security situation in order to be able to protect its personnel and ensure the safety of its citizens.

Segura reported that there are some studies happening in the vicinity of Tripoli and its neighboring suburbs as well as some heavy activities of the people there. Parts of the capital have already been occupied by extremist militias, including the Islamic Revolutionary Council.

The UNHCR is monitoring the situation and the Embassy continues to urge Filipinos in Libya not to go out unless they have to go to work, school and medical places and wait for the advice from the Embassy to prepare for the return and repatriation.

The DFA continues to assist the families of Filipinos who are in Libya. The hotline numbers are 811-3340, 811-3341 and 811-3342.

Presidential Spokesman Edwin Lacierda also said that the secretary of the Philippines in Libya requested the primary assistance of the Philippine government.

Segura said the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) is monitoring the situation in Libya. The primary concern is the protection of our citizens and the national flag.

He said the Agency administration will ensure the immediate evacuation of the citizens in Libya.

"The Philippines supports a peaceful transition in Libya in order for the country to return to its normalcy and to be able to work with the Libyan people in promoting peace and stability," Lacierda said.

The DFA said: "The Philippines government stands with the Libyan people for keeping the peace and stability in Libya and for the development of the country. The Philippines will continue to support the Libyan people in promoting peace and stability, Lacierda said."

Syria

Last Thursday 13 overseas Filipino workers arrived at the Manila Airport International Terminal from Syria, also according to the Department of Foreign Affairs.

DFA spokesman Rafael Segura said the 13 had avoided the repatriation government's call for voluntary repatriation.

"They are the latest batch of citizens returned and based 2 for the same country of Syria," Segura said. Since March, some 36 OFWs from Syria have repatriated.

The DFA had issued three sets of travel documents to the 13, and encouraged Filipinos there to return home as soon as possible. It also urged Filipinos to return home as soon as possible. It also urged Filipinos to return home as soon as possible.

THESE overseas Filipino workers are welcomed by DFA Undersecretary Carmela Chavez upon arrival at the Manila Airport International Terminal. They are the latest batch of workers who had avoided the Philippine government's call for voluntary repatriation.

Send your gifts early so they can be received on time

By Helen D. Soler

ON AUGUST 1, it will be the month of September for Filipinos. As the kick-off of a long holiday season, that last holiday "see" is when it's time to buy and send your gifts to loved ones.

The presents are an important part of the celebration, but they are the central part of the celebration. There is nothing more exciting than opening the gift wrappers and find that one's gift is longed for months.

But for families of overseas Filipino workers, the gifts sometimes go a few months late. Talk about missing that holiday season in the middle of everything. There is a significant increase of cash flow from remittances as well as of bulk buyers from their families. Because of this, many workers may not be enough money to buy gifts to their families. Many workers may not be enough money to buy gifts to their families.

Korea offers support services to returning OFWs

LABOR AND Employment Secretary Rosendo G. Sison recently encouraged Filipino workers returning from Korea under the Korean Employment Development Scheme (KEDS) to avail of the services to support services offered by the Bureau of Labor and Employment under the KEDS Program.

The KEDS Program offers OFW workers returning to the Philippines free business and skills training such as business plan writing, computer literacy, business writing, and other skills. Sison said that the program is a significant increase of cash flow from remittances as well as of bulk

Baldoz warns Pinoys on false Spain labor market information

L'ASCE® International Building Exposition & Conference: Boston

"The prospects for the employment of our graduates [in Spain] is not good," an Filipino who may be spying work in Spain should not believe any information saying otherwise," said Baldo.

Balboa said she received a report from Philipine Labor Overseas representative T. Yambor Jr. saying that while unemployment among Filipinos already in Spain has remained relatively low compared with other migrant-sending countries for the employment of non-GPAs is not desirable.

Most Filipinos in Spain, said Tirola, are employed in the bus, restaurants and hotel sector, which has suffered less from the slowdown in tourism arrivals in 2009 and 2010 and had created steady employment for some Filipinos in terms of reduced number of working hours. It is only now that the sector is slowly recovering.

Yonhok, in his report, said that Spain ended the first quarter of 2003 with an unemployment rate of 21.5 percent, the highest in the

"I would, therefore, advise CFWs to be wary of offers of employment in Spain, particularly in construction, real estate and manufacturing. Hispanic workers in these sectors are mostly Latin Americans or much less than Asians, such as Filipinos, may find it hard to get re-employed in those sectors," Madden said.

The study utilized OFWs as prospective OFWs to validate any information on the Spain labor market with proper authorities, such as the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration, or the Spanish Embassy in Manila.
